Abstract

ملیانی حال

Method and arrangement for designing the control of a complete process prevent blocking between competing individual\ processes within a complete process, functionalities of the individual processes identified and the interplay of these functionalities is validated. The data obtained from the validation can be used for controlling the complete process.